To the President of the University of Lübeck Germany

Lyon, June 5th 2010

Dear Sir,

Re: Threat on the Medical School of Lübeck University

I have been informed that there are current discussions about the possibility of closing the Medical School of the University of Lübeck. As a Member of Claude-Bernard University of Medicine in Lyon, I wish to express my strong concerns about this possible decision. The Medical School of Lübeck is a leading force in the medical world and its disappearance would be a major disaster in Europe and in the world.

I am particularly concerned by the effects of such a negative decision on the current collaborative programmes set between the medical department of the University of Lübeck and our university. Professor Olaf Hiort from Lübeck is the main leader of an important European research project on Disorders of Sex Development (Euro DSD – Seventh Framework Programme) which is financed by the European institution. A threat on the Medical School of Lübeck would definitely jeopardize this European network which clearly goes against the interests of the international scientific community.

I hope that these rumours will fade away and I thank you in advance for measuring the potential consequences of such a drastic decision for the international medical community.

Yours sincerely,

Professor Pierre D.E. Mouriquand, MD, FRCS(Eng), FEAPU
